

My first term experience at Redemption College

Redemption College is also known as Inter Chapel College (ICC), and it's a secondary school with high quality teachers and so many learning tools for the students. I first attended the school during summer lessons from the 15th of August to the 14th of September 2012. So from the little experience I had, I knew that all the staffs are working accurately. I liked the way they attend class and teach, and how they explain things in class according to our own level of understanding.

By that time, I didn't know if that was how they really were, and I couldn't find out until resumption. So when the school properly resumed, I got to know them better than before, and everything I was observing during summer lessons proved to be true. Within a short period of time, my brain opened wide, and it continues to develop more and more in the aspect of learning both at home, in the hostel and during school hours. Changes began to take place both physically and spiritually and for all these good things I thank God.

I'm an art student and I want to study law in a higher education institution after my secondary school level. School activities in terms of sports are football, handball and running (100m, 200m and 400m). I'm involved in football and running. Concerning the aspect of fellowship in the school, I joined the choir group. Thanks.
